DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

- "92" (page 7, lines 23, 24) should be -- 92 --.

- "72" (page 10, line 15) should be -- 12 --.

- "98" (page 12, line 8) should be -- 100 --.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

"Suspension" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 5-11, and 14-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tomikawa et al. (US 6,039,441).

Tomikawa et al. discloses all the claimed features of the invention including:

- a replaceable ink container (Fig. 1a) for providing ink to an inkjet printing system (Fig. 5b) and method for forming a seal (Fig. 1b), the inkjet printing system having a replaceable printhead (21) and a receiving station (27) for receiving the replaceable ink container, the receiving station having a fluid inlet (24) and a sealing structure (22), the replaceable ink container comprising:

- a reservoir (2) defining a fluid outlet (11) and a sealing surface (14) proximate the fluid outlet (Fig. 1b);

- a sealing material (ink in 2) contained within the reservoir for wetting the sealing surface (column 5, lines 59-60) to seal defects between the sealing surface and the sealing structure (column 5, line 60),

- the sealing material contains pigment particles (inherent feature of ink),

- the reservoir contains a quantity of ink (Fig. 1a),

Art Unit: 2861

- the sealing surface is configured to be sufficiently wettable such that the sealing surface is wet by the sealing material (wet by ink, column 5, lines 59-60),
- the engaging the sealing surface with the sealing structure includes solidifying the sealing material so that solid particles fall out of suspension (ink meniscus effect, inherent feature of ink),
- a storage reservoir having a capillary storage material (3) disposed therein for retaining ink.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3, 4, 12, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tomikawa et al. in view of Ma et al. (US 5,085,698).

Tomikawa et al. does not disclose the following claimed features:

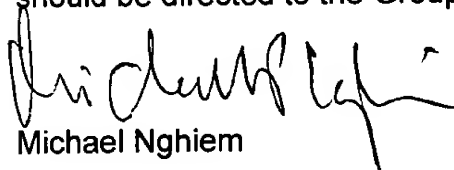

- the sealing material contains carbon black particles,
- a dispersant.

Art Unit: 2861

Nevertheless, Ma et al. discloses an ink containing carbon black particles (column 8, lines 38-39) for the purpose of providing black pigments (column 8, lines 38-39) and a dispersant (column 9, lines 29-30) for the purpose of dispersing the pigment particles (column 9, lines 40-41).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide Tomikawa et al. with ink containing carbon black particles and dispersant as disclosed by Ma et al. for the purposes of providing black pigments and dispersing the pigment particles.
